

MEDIA COMMUNICATIONS CERTIFICATE +

This certificate prepares students to effectively use digital communications media. Courses in this certificate include marketing, communication, and software skills that may be used to enhance current employment and prepare individuals for a wide variety of careers using new media. In addition, students will critically engage with emerging trends in the study of human interaction with digital media.

Students who complete the Media Communications certificate can apply those courses to CCV's Design & Media Studies (A.A.) + program.
